

The official opening of Audubon and Town Land trails was enjoyed by (l-r) Elden Wadsworth of the conservation commission; Frank Leseur, director of the recreation department; Sam Pillsbury of the lands committee; Rev. Robert Merry, chairman of the lands committee; David Clapp, director of the Audubon Society; Brad Martin, director of Land & Natural Resource; Al Borgeson, former head of the tree department; Joe Grady, assistant director of Lands & Natural Resources; Charles Wood of the historical society; and Katherine Pillsbury, town historian.

Al Borgeson, former head of the Duxbury Tree Department.

Photos by Deni Johnson

Left: A marker in honor of Frederick Bradford Knapp stands in the town forest. Alden Wadsworth, Brad Martin, Frank LeSueur and Sam Pillsbury stand beside it.

- o Canoe access (April to October) only where designated
- o Alcoholic beverages

Open 8:00am to sunset

Emergencies: Duxbury Police – 934-5656

Wildlife Sightings: Massachusetts

Audubon Society – 837-9400

Per Order of:

Selectmen of Duxbury

Town Forest of Duxbury

Duxbury Conservation Comm.

Massachusetts Audubon Society

Duxbury Rural and Historical Society